

ARTEMIS: PREVENTING SEXUAL HARASSMENT & ABUSE AMONG PRIMARY SCHOOL STUDENTS

ABOUT THE PROJECT: FIGHTING THE SILENT THREAT

Did you know? Sexual bullying is the second most frequent form of bullying in many regions, according to the Global School-Based Student Health Survey (GSHS). This lack of a safe learning environment for children is unacceptable.

Why Does This Matter?

Every child deserves to feel safe and supported at school. Unfortunately, a lack of awareness and training for educators often leaves students, particularly girls and young women, vulnerable to harassment. As Equal Rights Advocates (ERA) states, "schools are educating students about their rights and responsibilities from a young age" is crucial to creating a culture of respect and safety.

Artemis: A Beacon of Change

Artemis aims to be a powerful educational tool that equips teachers with the knowledge and resources they need to address sexual bullying in schools. By dismantling old prejudices and fostering open communication, we can create a positive shift in mentalities.

THIS YEAR'S PROGRESS

We're excited to announce the completion of our flagship educational resource:

THE NO HARASSMENT GUIDE

This comprehensive guide is currently undergoing translation into all partner languages and will be available soon.

Spreading the Word: New Resources Are Here!

We've developed new promotional materials to help spread awareness about our project:

- Download our brochure to find an overview of the project
- Engage with us on Facebook. Our Facebook page features inspiring articles and aims to foster open discussions.
- And last but not least, Visit our website!

LOOKING AHEAD: NEW RESOURCES IN THE PIPELINE

We're committed to ongoing support.

In the new school year, we'll be developing exciting new resources, including a short film.
